About me

I am currently working at a company as a Front-end Web Developer. I am very dedicated to learning about the tasks assigned to me, and in the future, I aspire to become a Full Stack Developer.

Work history

With two years of experience in developing web applications, I have advanced from being a team member to leading projects independently. I have worked as an outsourced developer for a company, contributing to the development of a program for the Provincial Electricity Authority (PEA) using React and Angular.
